2 GAIN ALTITUDE OF 58,000 FEET

Air Adventurers Believed Busy Looking After Safety of Scientific Data, Instruments.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(UP)—Lieutenant Commander T. G. W. Settle and Major Chester L. Fordney, who rode a sealed gondola under a huge balloon about 11 miles into the stratosphere today, apparently had landed their craft tonight in an isolated section of southern New Jersey.

The great bag, after attaining an estimated altitude of 58,000 feet, began its descent over Pennsylvania and after dark, was reported to have been sighted in the vicinity of Wilmington, Del.

Later tonight various reports indicated the balloon, first American craft ever to reach the outer layer of the earth's atmosphere, had landed in the vicinity of Alloway, N. J., near Salem.

A farmer telephoned Salem police that he had seen a big balloon "coming down very rapidly," heading in the general direction of a large pine woods.

In Washington, navy men pointed out that Commander Settle's first concern, upon landing, would be for his expensive instruments in the gondola, which were used in obtaining scientific data on the flight.

Navy officials were inclined to believe that the balloon did land near Alloway, and that Commander Settle and Major Fordney set to work at once to remove their instruments from the gondola and get them in shape for transportation.

Meanwhile, New Jersey state police began a search for the balloon, operating mainly out of the Vineland headquarters. Local officials in communities around Salem likewise were hunting for the craft, and were hindered by wild rumors concerning its passage.

Navy men said that if the reports from around Wilmington were authentic, the balloon was flying too low to make it possible for it to read out to sea. It was pointed out that the hydrogen in the bag contracts in the cold, and that Commander Settle probably got rid of some gas in his descent. These facts, together with data on wind direction, make it highly probable that the bag came to earth in New Jersey after crossing the Delaware river.

Commander Settle and Major Fordney told the graphic story of their flight by radio telephone communications. They indicated that they had

Long Dry Kansas Votes In '34 on State Prohibition

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Kansas pioneer prohibition state will vote in November, 1934, on whether it shall retain its 53-year-old legal banishment of liquor by constitutional amendment—the forerunner of the repudiated federal prohibition.

The referendum provided for next year by a special session of the Kansas legislature today, in the state where Carrie Nation gained nationwide fame for her saloon-wrecking activities after Kansas became legally dry, will be the first test of the dry clause adopted in 1880, the first written in any state's constitution.

2-MONTH RECESS IN ARMS MEETING DEEMED CERTAIN

Informal Discussions of Disarmament May Continue Outside Geneva During Interim.

GENEVA, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Leaders who have sought for weeks to find some basis for agreement on disarmament virtually decided today to suspend their efforts for two months.

The French spoke in favor of the recess was expected to be made at a meeting tomorrow. Whether a program of work to be conducted in the interim will be announced was problematical.

American delegates waited to learn whether a special conference will be conducted outside of Geneva and, if so, what countries would be invited to join Italy, Germany, Great Britain and France in such talks. The Americans have indicated that they wished the Russians and Japanese to be included in such negotiations.

Italian representatives today opposed a continuation of sub-committee meetings at Geneva during the recess, but the French spoke in favor of such a plan. The steering committee was convened for Wednesday to pass upon any program of recess work.

It was said in authoritative circles that efforts of the United States delegates, led by Hugh R. Wilson, American minister to Switzerland, to have Russia and Japan added to the four power conversations have failed.

Discussions in the interim, if any, were expected to have as a main object the return of Germany to the disarmament conference, which the reich left last month.

Mr. Wilson, the acting chief of the American group in the absence of Ambassador Norman H. Davis, conferred with Sir John Simon, the British foreign secretary, on disarmament prospects today.

Members of the steering committee met this afternoon at the home of Joseph A. M. C. Avenol, secretary.

Treasury Clamps Lid On Statistical Data

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(UP)—The treasury clamped down tonight on the unrestricted circulation of general statistical data or information involving administration policy. To many observers the action appeared to be a further step in a campaign to prevent publication of information from official sources reflecting upon administration programs.

Acting Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., insisted he was not imposing "tag rules" but made it clear that he felt justified in taking such action as he felt necessary to protect treasury secrets. He ordered that all statistical or policy information must be made public only through Herbert E. Gaston, his own publicity man, whom he took to the treasury with him from the farm credit administration.

RULES ON GINNING GIVEN APPROVAL OF SEC. WALLACE

Maximum Charges and System of State and National Control Provided Under Agreement.

LOANS TO BE MADE ON OPTION COTTON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Immediate distribution of $48,000,000, constituting a 4-cent-a-pound advance to cotton producers who are to receive options on 2,400,000 bales of government-held cotton, was announced today by Oscar Johnston, director of finance for the farm administration.

The advance will be made to approximately 600,000 producers as quickly as necessary forms can be signed.

The producers who asked options on government cotton at 6 cents a pound as part of their consideration for acreage reduction will be required to participate in the 1934 program.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Tentative approval of a cotton ginners' marketing agreement by Secretary Wallace was announced today by the farm administrator.

The agreement provides schedules of maximum service charges, and creates a system of state and national control. It is designed to insure better quality of ginning equipment and handling requirements, elimination of unfair trade practices and a means for commercial ginners regulate facilities to the requirements of particular ginning communities.

The agreement, as tentatively approved, will be submitted to the ginners for signatures. It will then be returned to Secretary Wallace for final approval and for establishment of an effective date.

14,000 Affected. Under the marketing agreement any license which might be issued would apply to all commercial units, affecting approximately 14,000 commercial des.

Secretary Wallace in giving his tentative approval, noted that under its terms farmers are not represented directly on season and called attention to the fact that agreement contained no provision for supervision by public agencies or farmers representatives over the drawing of cotton seed samples.

C. A. Cobb, chief of the cotton production section, who directed negotiations, said the agreement was approved by the council.

Monday's council meeting was one of the busiest of the past several months, and council was confronted with the increasing problems of financing the government for the remainder of the year.

Mayor James L. Key will approve issuance of scrip to meet November pay rolls, it was believed, and the paper will be distributed within about ten days.

Atlanta merchants will be called upon to absorb it as they did last year's issue and there was every indication that it will be on about the same terms as were imposed in 1932.

Woman Reported Struck by Mate With Billiard Cue Before Killing.

PAULSBORO, N. J., Nov. 20.—(AP)—In the slaying of a woman, an argument between her and her husband, Sheldon A. Clark, son of a vice president of the Sinclair Oil Company, was shot and killed in the billiard room of his palatial home late today.

His wife, the former Audrey Smith, was taken to a hospital with an injury to her head, and a police guard was placed around her bed.

Police said Clark, who was 34 and the heir to a large fortune, struck his 25-year-old wife on the head with a billiard cue during the quarrel and that she picked up a pistol from his collection of firearms and shot him.

Clark was a special engineer for the oil company. He was a son of A. Sheldon Clark, of Chicago.

The bullet struck Clark in the breast, killing him almost instantly, police said.

Police said the two children of the couple, Sheldon, III, 8, and Harry, 5, were on the first floor of the home, and Mr. and Mrs. Clark were in the billiard room in the cellar.

Neighbors were attracted by the shot and on entering the home found Mrs. Clark hysterical and her husband lying on the floor next to the billiard table.

SCRIP IS ORDERED TO MEET PAY ROLL

Council Refuses to Pass Fi. Fa. Measure; Techwood Plan Introduced.

Sidestepping, at least temporarily, the council Monday afternoon voted to issue scrip to meet $280,000 in pay rolls for November salaries of municipal employees, sent the tax lien sale proposal to the finance committee for further study and referred to the finance committee a proposal to acquire park sites in the development of Techwood, Inc.

The council refused to approve an ordinance establishing a separate department of registration for the municipality and sent the measure, which had the endorsement of the ordinance committee and the active support of Councilman John A. White, Alderman J. Charlie Murphy and others, to the tax committee for a report.

Monday's council meeting was one of the busiest of the past several months, and council was confronted with the increasing problems of financing the government for the remainder of the year.

REYNOLDS CONSPIRATOR GETS 5-YEAR SENTENCE

WILKESBORO, N. C., Nov. 20.—(AP)—A sentence of five years in the Atlanta penitentiary was imposed today upon John T. Lanier, 35-year-old Winston-Salem man, who pleaded guilty in federal court here to an attempt to extort $10,000 from R. J. Reynolds under a threat of kidnapping Mrs. Reynolds.

Judge John J. Hays pronounced sentence after L. O. Carver, a department of justice agent, had outlined the evidence against Lanier, which included a confession.

Carver was the only witness. He was called after Lanier's guilty plea had been entered, to give Judge Hays a factual foundation for assessing the penalty.

In the crowded courtroom were Carver's wife and 3-year-old daughter, and his father. No member of the Reynolds family was present.

W. A. Dunlap, president of the club, introduced Clark Howell, editor of The Constitution, who in turn introduced Mr. Dickinson as a man of unusual attainments, both as scholar and economist. Mr. Dickinson, he said, had doctor's and master's degrees from leading universities, at some of which he had taught; was a successful lawyer in New York and Los Angeles; and had brought to his present high position the experience and information of his earlier career.

Speaking of the interest of many of the members of the club in transportation, Mr. Howell said that the national transportation commission appointed to study this problem had seen many of its recommendations adopted by congress, and the railroads themselves, notably in rate reductions, were following some of them.

WORK ON PROJECTS UNDER NEW CWA WILL START TODAY

Board, Faced by Task of Putting 82,000 Georgians to Work, Spends Day Mapping Details.

Faced by the huge task of putting more than 80,000 Georgians to work under the new civil works administration as soon as possible, the old Georgia relief commission, which becomes the civil works administration for the state, Monday waded through a mass of details and figures in its offices at the capitol and announced that the first work on projects under the new setup probably will begin today.

A start on work under the CWA has been expected Monday, but the terrific amount of detail confronting the board made it impossible to put the machinery in motion, the board members being "up to their necks," Ronald Ransom, chairman, said.

The board will meet again at 9 o'clock this morning at the capitol offices, and will endeavor to have quota figures and other details ready by that time so that the transfer of persons from work relief rolls to the CWA pay roll can be put into effect, Ransom said.

Much of the day was spent in the study of rules and regulations, a canvass of the number of projects up for consideration and approval, and examination of possible ways of getting the machinery into action, it was said.

Details of the difficulties encountered were not announced publicly but it was learned that one of the most stubborn problems was that of handling the pay rolls.

That job assumed tremendous proportions when the government announced plans to pay the civil works forces by individual check, through veterans' administration offices.

Heretofore, on relief work, the payment has been made through the relief administrators, in cash.

Facilities for handling such a volume of checks did not exist here, particularly in the case of the payment of checks, but payment was planned on a set hourly scale of wages so that each man's pay would have to be totaled on the basis of time put in.

The commission heard the plan of a delegation from Savannah, headed by Mayor Thomas Gamble, for employment of civil works forces on a considerable program of public works, but announced no final decision. The delegation was invited to return tomorrow and present its plans to the divisions directly in charge of such work.

Another delegation, from Augusta, brought plans for more than $1,000,000 worth of levee repairs, sewers, drainage, and repairs on the city hall and public building repairs, but announced no final decision. The delegation was invited to return tomorrow and present its plans to the divisions directly in charge of such work.

DICKINSON TELLS OF EXPORT RISE

Assistant Secretary of Commerce Heard by Foreign Trade Club.

A substantial increase in exports since last March was noted Monday by John Dickinson, assistant secretary of commerce, who addressed a luncheon meeting of the Atlanta Foreign Trade Club at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

The value of American exports reached last March a low level of $100,000,000 a month, Mr. Dickinson said, but by July the figure had mounted to $144,000,000, and by September to $160,000,000, exceeding the record of any month since 1931.

The steady increase in our exports has been made possible first of all by the suspension of gold payments," Mr. Dickinson said. "Had we endeavored to continue on the gold standard and at the same time increased domestic prices, the result would have been to increase imports and further decrease exports."

W. A. Dunlap, president of the club, introduced Clark Howell, editor of The Constitution, who in turn introduced Mr. Dickinson as a man of unusual attainments, both as scholar and economist. Mr. Dickinson, he said, had doctor's and master's degrees from leading universities, at some of which he had taught; was a successful lawyer in New York and Los Angeles; and had brought to his present high position the experience and information of his earlier career.

Soviet Religious Pledge Is Doubled by Vatican

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 20.—(UP)—Doubt that soviet Russia's promises of religious freedom to American citizens would prove effective in actual practice was expressed by the newspaper Osservatore Romano, official Holy See organ, in an editorial today.

Commenting on Washington's recognition of soviet Russia, the publication said:

"M. Litvinoff is able to point out that Mr. Roosevelt's religious demands already are contemplated in the soviet constitution and laws. However, their real worth is clearly meaningless and they are used only for soviet leaders in making outside accords."

CHANGES NEEDED IN NRA AND AAA, SAYS HARRIMAN

Time Has Come for Friendly Criticism, C. of C. President Tells Convention Here.

Present nation-wide opposition to the national recovery act is a natural reaction to unrealistic hopes for speedy and instantaneous recovery, and the recovery act and the agricultural adjustment act can be made to work if wisely amended and constructively administered, Henry J. Harriman, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, Monday night told a large gathering of leaders of commerce and industry of this section at the banquet of the southeastern division of the chamber.

Mr. Harriman's declaration that "the time has come for friendly and constructive criticism of the policies of the administration" was given during an address on "Cures—Not Miracles," as the feature of the first day's sessions of the southeastern division's convention, in which representatives of the government outlined the effects and policies of the recovery administration.

Today's sessions of the national chamber division at the Biltmore hotel will include the reply of southern leaders to the remarks of the federal emergency administration of public works, said at a luncheon meeting that "amazing speed has been made in the public works program, but scrupulous care has been exercised in the consideration of every project that the public interest might be properly safeguarded." The public works administration is endeavoring to create sentiment for long-range planning, he said.

The whole recovery program is now well under way and no phase of it is more important than the solution of the home mortgage problem," Horace Russell, of Atlanta, general counsel of the federal home loan board, said in speaking on Monday afternoon's program. "Long-term home mortgage lending broke down and the 'Rate War' Said No Part of New Low Fare, Already in Use Over Half of System; Cut Effective December 1.

SURCHARGE BANNED ON PULLMAN CARS

New Rate Will Be 3 Cents Per Mile; Slash Regaining Business Lost to Highways, Officials Say.

A passenger rate of 1 1/2 cents a mile, which is now in effect on virtually half of its system, will be applied to all lines of the Southern railway on December 1, or as soon thereafter as possible, headquarters of the road in Washington announced Monday night.

On the same date a rate of 3 cents on Pullman cars, without the present 50 per cent surcharge, will be put into effect. The rate now is 3.6 cents, plus the surcharge.

The extension of the rate will cover approximately 8,000 miles of the system, and will include the Southern Railway Company, Cincinnati, New Orleans, Texas Pacific, Alabama Great Southern, New Orleans & Northwestern, Georgia Southern & Florida, Northern Alabama and smaller lines.

Atlanta officials pointed out that this was not a rate war, but an extension of a policy first experimented with in September, 1932. At that time the 1 1/2 cent rate was applied between Goldsboro and Winston-Salem. It was not a success there, but the management was not discouraged. The territory was extended until now the 1 1/2-cent rate applies between Harrisonburg and Washington, Danville and Norfolk, Salisbury, Charlotte and Asheville, Bristol, Asheville, Atlanta and points west, altogether about 4,000 miles.

The new rate was so successful in regaining business both from the buses and the privately owned motor cars that the road decided to make it operative on all points of its system, the largest in the south and one of the largest of the country.

While the new rate will be half a cent under that charged by other roads, it is not to be a success, but a reprisal against other railroads, but a complete effort to get some of the business back which for the last few years has been taken by automobiles.

The two-cent coach rate and the three-cent Pullman rate were announced by the Seaboard Air Line, the Central of Georgia, the Atlantic Coast Line, Georgia railroad and the Atlanta, Birmingham & Coast railroad on November 13.

Charging fraud in the September 20 primary, in which, on the face of returns, he was defeated by one vote for the nomination as councilman from the second ward, Warren W. Leak, incumbent, Monday entered the general election claiming he was and is the rightful nominee, and, therefore, entitled to be the nominee of the primary.

Disclaiming that he is an independent and asserting that he believes in the primary, Leak said in his announcement that his action is a protest against "a fraudulent primary."

He points to findings of the September-October term grand jury which asked the democratic committee to declare him the nominee, and subsequent findings leading to indictments as evidence of fraud, on which he predicates his campaign.

Leak was defeated on the face of returns by former Councilman Howard C. McCutcheon, and the democratic committee declared McCutcheon the nominee.

'Prison Within Prison' Planned By Warden To Halt Riots, Unrest

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Warden Herbert Smith's answer to three months of unrest in the Eastern State penitentiary, where there have been riots and a wholesale delivery attempt, began to take form today—a prison within the prison.

When it is completed 50 convicts will be marched in, facing detention there as though on an island, isolated from their fellow prisoners until their long terms expire.

"We gave those ringleaders several chances, but they are the kind who always cause uprisings," said Smith. "Work has begun for the segregation block and these men will be placed in it as long as I am warden."

VENUE CHANGE ASKED IN 'SCOTTSBORO' CASE

DECATUR, Ala., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Affidavits setting forth allegations in support of the defense contention that seven negro defendants in the Scottsboro case could not obtain a fair trial in Morgan county, this afternoon were read into the record in support of a motion for a change of venue.

The petition, a bulky document containing many affidavits, was offered this afternoon. It was the second motion made today after the defendants had been arraigned that would, if granted, result in postponement of the first of the retrials, that of Heywood Patterson, which was set for Monday, November 27.

In the forenoon, before arraignment, Samuel Leibowitz, chief of defense counsel, moved to quash the indictment on the grounds that absence of negroes from the grand jury returning the true bill, constituted a violation of the constitutional rights of the defendants.

Although the spectators were orderly and there appeared a lack of interest in the proceedings, Judge W. W. Callahan, presiding, and other authorities took no chances on anything untoward happening.

A guard was assigned to Leibowitz day and night, inside the court and out, by Judge Callahan and every spectator entering was searched for weapons.

The return of Ruby Bates, one of the alleged victims of the attack, to Decatur to testify in these trials today apparently was definitely off, since Leibowitz entered a motion for interrogatories, and was informed by the court that it was within his power to have a commission take the depositions.

Winder Mill Dispute Is Settled by Board

The first decision handed down by the regional labor board for the southeast, released Monday in the case involving the Carwood Manufacturing Company, of Winder, Ga., binds employers and employees to a settlement of a work condition controversy evolved by the board after hearing both sides, George W. Ramaker, secretary of the board, announced.

When employers and employees are unable to agree upon every detail of the settlement, the board exercises its power and hands down a decision covering the case. In the Carwood matter, the board recommended installation of a time clock, one of the disputed points being whether work hours were reported correctly. The board also ruled that the company should recognize the right to collective bargaining, should not contract out work to firms not under the NRA, and that employees laid off since August 1 should be given preference in re-employment.

Another case, from Tennessee, is scheduled for a hearing before the board Thursday morning.

AL SMITH STATES

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Alfred E. Smith, speaking to members of four exchanges in the governors' room of the New York Stock Exchange in an appeal for funds for charity, said government charity means increased taxation and "manning the burden right back to the very people we are trying to benefit."

He continued:

"You can argue until you're blue in the face, you can get all the economists that ever came out of a college in the known world and let them do all the figuring they want to do, and when you're finished you are forced to the conclusion that taxes are ultimately paid by the fellow who works in the street."

Burglars Dynamite Church Safe, Get $1,000

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Burglars, who are believed to have attended the Sunday night worship at the People's church of Chicago, today were accused of dynamiting a safe in the church office and stealing $1,000 in cash, collected at the services.

The burglary was discovered by Thomas Harrison, the church treasurer, today.

The thieves, police believe, secreted themselves in the building and waited until all the Sunday evening worshippers had gone. Then they forced their way into the church office, bored holes in the safe and blasted it open with dynamite.

LIBERAL LIQUOR RULES ARE URGED BY DU PONT

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP)—To rid the country of liquor law evasion, Pierre S. Du Pont said today, "there must be a decided move to show people they can have what they want, when they want it and where they want it."

"The people of the United States," Du Pont declared, "have been restricted by unpopular laws for so long that they must now be given some freedom or they will go back to evading the laws as they did the old."

The views of Du Pont, chairman of the board of the E. I. Du Pont de Nemours Company and liquor commissioner of Delaware, were given at a hearing of the alcoholic beverage law committee of the Federal Bar Association.

The committee proposes to draft legislative measures to present to congress.

Du Pont, who aided in the campaign for repeal of liquor law evasion, said he favored drinking at bars and was opposed to Sunday and midnight closing regulations for places where liquor is served.

"I have never been able to find anyone who could tell me why selling over a bar is a bad thing. I can't see any harm in it. Liberty is certainly the best move and the fewer restrictions upon the man who wants to drink the better."

This Du Pont said, is the real road to temperance.

WELLES MAY VISIT PRESIDENT AGAIN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Ambassador Sumner Welles told newspapermen today he planned to return to Cuba Friday or Saturday for an indefinite stay.

There is some possibility Welles may return by way of Warm Springs, Ga., for a second conference with President Roosevelt.

He conferred today with Undersecretary William Phillips and Assistant Secretary Jefferson Caffery and will continue to confer with state department officials until his departure.

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 20.—

(UP)—A discussion between President Roosevelt and Henry Ford is in prospect, authoritative quarters indicated tonight.

Friends of the administration said they would not be at all surprised if Ford came here to confer with the chief executive at the "Little White House," adding, however, that there was nothing definite as yet.

Should the president and the motor magnate meet, it might result, observers pointed out, to the latter consenting to come in under the Blue Eagle with the rest of the automobile industry.

Ford's adherence to NRA principles, it is said by some, might also have the important effect of quieting unrest among certain branches of industry and even strengthening the whole industrial and stabilization program of the administration.

Reports in connection with the possibility of a visit by Ford said that he was invited by Mr. Roosevelt to come to Warm Springs. At the temporary executive offices, however, those reports could not be confirmed.

Meanwhile, the president carried forward his plans to obtain as much rest and relaxation as possible within the next few weeks. Favored by perfect weather and with the mercury close to the 75 mark, he spent several hours out of doors today behind the wheel of his new little touring car.

Intensely interested in the growth and development of Warm Springs as a health center for infantile paralysis sufferers, he visited cottages that were constructed since his last trip here and then inspected Georgia Hall, the new patients' building.

The president drove with his mother, Mrs. Sarah Delano Roosevelt, and Miss Margaret Lehand, his private secretary. Later he motored through the countryside, returning to the "Little White House" in time for an early dinner.

During the morning with the other patients of Warm Springs, Mr. Roosevelt went through the regular schedule of exercises, winding up with a swim in the pool.

At the offices it was said that telegrams still were arriving in praise of the administration's resumption of normal relations with the soviet union. The day after recognition was announced 300 messages were received. The number now was believed to be twice the former figure.

During his stay, the president is expected to confer with Henry Morgenthau Jr., acting secretary of the treasury, on department problems.

Harry Hopkins, federal relief administrator, and head of the newly created public works board which has been intrusted with the gigantic task of putting 4,000,000 men on pay rolls this winter, also may be called, it was learned.

Hopkins' visit would be in connection with the work program for which $400,000,000 has been made available as a starter.

A mother's letter to her daughter about Baking Secrets

Dear Helen:

Do you remember how the neighbors used to beg me to tell them about my secret for baking good pastry?

Not having baking secrets of any kind, I was unable to help. These women, as you know, refused to believe that I was telling the truth until I urged each one to use nothing but soft wheat flour for baking pastry. The results were perfect, and, since then, all of these ladies have continued to enjoy the thrill of baking good pastry.

We all use Elegant because it's a high grade, soft wheat flour. Try it, and, I am sure, your troubles will disappear.

Glasses are to the face what the frame is to a picture.

The human face is considered by artists to be the greatest picture subject of all. Nowadays, with all the emphasis that is placed on appearance, great study is given to presenting the actual human face in its most advantageous aspects.

Not the least important is the attractive and artistic frame or mounting for the lenses in eye-glasses. They are, to the face, what the frame is to a picture.

Thanks to the artistic skill of designers, frames and shapes of lenses are now used that do a great deal to enhance the appearance of eye-glass wearers.

The art of framing the eyes has been brought to a high degree of perfection here.

Three Minute Relief From Periodical Pains

It is so unnecessary to suffer month after month from irregular pains, because "B. C." will bring soothing relief in three minutes.

"B. C." is prepared by a registered pharmacist, compounded on a different principle from most relieving agencies in that it contains several ingredients, used by many physicians, so blended and proportioned as to accomplish in a few minutes what we believe no one drug formula can do in so short a time.

"B. C." should also be used for the relief of common colds, headaches and neuralgia, muscular aches and pains, reducing fever and for quieting a distressed nervous system without opiates, narcotics or such habit-forming drugs. Get "B. C." in 10c and 25c packages, wherever drugs are sold.—(adv.)

Corns

First drop of Freezone stops all pain

Doesn't hurt one bit. Drop a little FREEZONE on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers.

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of FREEZONE for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, on corn between the toes, and the foot calluses, without soreness or irritation.

FREEZONE Painful Piles

Go Quick—No Cutting—No Salves

Thousands of pile sufferers have not yet learned that quick, safe and lasting relief can be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor suppositories remove the cause.

Bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The hemorrhoidal veins are filled with stagnant blood, weak and flabby. To get rid of pile misery an internal medicine should be used to stimulate the circulation, heal and strengthen the weakened parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt after years of study found a real internal pile remedy. He called his discovery HEM-ROID, and after prescribing it for his patients with a most remarkable record of success, decided every pile sufferer might get his prescription at their druggist with a money-back guarantee.

Dr. Leonhardt's remedy is such an effective one that it should help you to quickly trade misery for blessed relief. So why doubt or delay when Jacobs Drug Stores say "Get a bottle of HEM-ROID tablets today; take them as directed, then if you are not free from all pile misery, get your money back."—(adv.)

White House Conference of Leaders Considers 400,000 Unemployed.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(AP)—In the White House east room, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt today presided over a conference on how to create work projects specially for 400,000 women.

Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator, called it, and he was there to place a goal—"work for 250,000 women in the next 30 days"—to say that funds were available to take women, like men, from relief rolls to employment but that imagination thus far had been lacking.

Next week the conference will have its sequel in state conferences, also requested by Hopkins.

The lights came on in the crystal chandeliers before the women conference—three members of congress, several federal officials, a score of presidents of national groups—had ended the discussions that started at noon.

A black cloud hangs over 9 out of every 10 AMERICANS

IT is not an overstatement to say that nine out of every ten American adults have a "laxative problem." With some it is more acute than with others, but sooner or later the black cloud of trouble descends. First, there is constipation itself which is bad enough. But second there is the growing laxative habit, which often turns out to be even worse.

You know how it goes. For a day or two after taking an ordinary laxative, you feel weak, listless—depressed. Then, just when your strength is returning, you find that your intestines have again clogged up.

Feen-a-mint is different because it enters your system in a different way. Feen-a-mint is made in the form of a pleasant tasting chewing gum. As you chew, the laxative element enters your digestive tract little by little. Feen-a-mint, administered gradually, is able to work over a large area of the intestine. Its action is thorough, because it is thoroughly distributed. Since there is no shock, the intestine can resume normal activity immediately.

Get a package of Feen-a-mint at your druggist's today. Feen-a-mint is safe (even for young children), non-habit-forming, and very economical.

speakers' table. Mr. Dickinson's address follows in full:

"It is encouraging to see a group of businessmen in a city like Atlanta devoting themselves to an interest in the problems of our foreign trade. It has always been surprising to me, in spite of the immense volume of our export trade during the years between 1920 and 1929, how little understanding seems to have existed on the part of the business and manufacturing community generally, as to the essential facts and conditions of foreign trade. On the part of the community at large, particularly at the present time, the subject is woefully misunderstood. We are accustomed, for example, to observe that our exports amount to only about 10 per cent of the total national product and to assume from the facts that foreign trade is negligible and that with our immense home market we can afford to forget it. As a matter of fact, this is by no means the case. If, in figuring the national product, we omit the value of services, like rail transportation, use of real estate and the like which cannot be exported, the volume of our export trade in normal times is very much more than 10 per cent, and furthermore in the case of certain types of products, as for example, cotton, which is so important in this area, a very high percentage of the total annual output normally finds its way into the export trade.

"If our foreign trade is permitted to wither and die, the result must inevitably be the closing-down of many factories and the abandonment of many farms. Careful estimates indicate that the decline in exports which has taken place since 1929, has deprived more than 1,000,000 workers of employment. The extent of the decline has been staggering. By March, 1933, the drop in quantities of goods exported was close to 50 per cent from the 1929 level. This has been greater than in the case of most foreign countries, the world average, between 1929 and 1933, having been a drop of only 30 per cent. The heavy decline in the case of the United States was due not merely to the general world depression but to certain policies which we pursued in regard to our foreign trade during the boom period as a result of ignoring elementary economic facts.

"International Position Regarded. "It is frequently said that the recovery program for the administration is designed from a purely domestic and nationalistic point of view, and takes no proper regard of our international position. Such a statement is pure assumption and completely at variance with the facts. Actually careful and well-designed measures have been taken to prevent our domestic program of recovery from interfering with the revival of foreign trade, and the success of those measures is indicated by the foreign figures for the months since March. In March our exports had fallen to a low level of approximately only $100,000,000 per month; by July the figure had mounted to $144,000,000, and by September to $160,000,000. This was the record of any month since 1931.

"The steady increase in our exports at the same time that the domestic price level has been increasing has been made possible first of all by the suspension of gold payments. Had we endeavored to continue on the gold standard at the same time in increased domestic prices, the inevitable result would have been to promote an increase of imports and still further decrease exports. By abandoning the gold standard the depreciation of the dollar has steadily offset the advance in domestic prices.

"In the second place the recovery measures and the administrative action taken under them have been designed to prevent an interference with exports. Thus, the agricultural act with its provision for a so-called processing tax designed to raise prices contains a further provision for a drawback of the processing taxes upon products exported. Similarly the national recovery administration recognizes the need for preventing the provisions of the act from unduly enhancing the prices of American products in the markets of the world, and to that end many of the important codes—for example, iron and steel, petroleum and lumber—specifically exempt the export trade from many of their provisions. The model code now in process of preparation includes in its present tentative form such exemptions.

"Must Profit by Lessons. "When we look to the future development of our export trade, we must recognize that if we are not to court disaster we must profit by the lessons of the period between 1921 and 1929 and not repeat the errors of those years. Simply to return to the boom export trade of those years would repeat the rags progress which led to the debacle of 1929. The factor which we failed to take into account in those years and which ruined us was the elementary economic fact that in the long run exports cannot increase without an increase in imports. We built up a great export trade and at the same time did all that we could to strangle imports.

"From 1921 to 1924 the excess of exports over imports was largely balanced by a new inflow of gold. From 1924 to 1929 the deficit in the goods balance was made up primarily by loans abroad. As a result of this policy of loans our exports were largely free gifts to the foreign countries involved, gifts made not by the exporter himself, but by the American investor whose money went into foreign securities which turned out to be worthless.

"We can, of course, if we so desire, repeat the folly of expanding our foreign trade by further extensions of credit abroad, which will again amount to giving away American goods to foreigners in order that our factories may increase their output. The policy of the administration is oriented in a different direction—namely, to increase imports in those lines of trade which will not seriously affect our own industries by negotiating reciprocal trade agreements for the interchange of particular commodities. This is the policy which the president has repeatedly stated.

"Reciprocal Exchange. "We must proceed," he said, "on the basis of a reciprocal exchange of goods, allowing other nations to buy and pay for our goods by sending us such of their goods as will not seriously throw any of our industries out of balance." Exploratory discussions have already been initiated with Argentina, Brazil, Columbia, Cuba, Sweden and Portugal, to see if a satisfactory basis for reciprocal tariff negotiations can be developed.

"We must not close our eyes to the tremendous difficulties which stand in the way of negotiating a mutually satisfactory series of reciprocal trade agreements which will once more restore our export trade to a normal and tions for the agreement said, "while the current ginning season has almost ended, this agreement gives the commercial ginning industry a basis upon which to affect these changes for the next season."

Under the agreement, the industry will organize state administrative committees, the chairman of which will comprise a national administrative committee. The committee's decisions are subject to the approval of the secretary of agriculture.

The state administrative committees would establish charges for ginning in each ginning community.

The maximum rates provided: For picked upland cotton from 25 to 30 cents per hundredweight of seed cotton. The maximum for this type as outlined in the agreement was 25 cents in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia; the 25 cents in the hill regions and 30 cents in the gulf area of Arkansas, Illinois, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri and Tennessee. The maximum rate fixed is 25 cents per hundred for upland cotton in Oklahoma and non-irrigated areas.

Thirty cents a hundred in Texas, Arizona, California, New Mexico and irrigated areas in Texas.

A maximum of 60 cents per hundredweight of seed cotton is fixed for pima cotton.

Stipulated as unfair practices were: Spending unsecured credit for services; paying of allowances for rebates, healthy permanent status. So many conflicts of interest are involved, so many criss-cross trade relations, so many political factors, that the obstacles to success are tremendous. This is particularly true in the present world political situation. As the depression has been deepening each nation has been becoming more and more self-centered, less and less willing to make concessions of any kind. This is an attitude which feeds on itself and increases the force of the very causes which lead to it.

"If some way is not found out of it, if the present tendency toward nationalism and particularism goes on, the resumption of normal international trade is simply impossible. If it proves to be impossible, we will have to content ourselves with pulling in our belts another notch and for the time being reducing our standard of living below what would be possible in a world where normal trade between nations went on."

Japanese Ex-PremierEscapes Assassassin

TOKYO, Nov. 21.—(Tuesday)—(UP)—Former Premier Reijiro Wakatsuki narrowly escaped death today when an assassin sought to kill him with a dagger at the railway station.

Wakatsuki's assailant was believed to be a fanatic opponent of the London naval treaty limiting Japan's naval building program by agreement with the United States and Great Britain. The statesman headed Japan's delegation to the conference in 1920.

Abbot Theory of Weather Cycle Borne Out by 23-Year-Old Records

The weather virtually repeats itself in cycles of 23 years, Dr. Charles G. Abbot, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, said in an address Monday before the National Academy of Sciences, meeting at Cambridge, Mass. This repetition, the doctor said, is the double-sun-spot period, otherwise known as Hale's magnetic cycle, an interval of 23 years. According to this theory the weather of 1936 will be generally similar to that which prevailed in 1913.

Even Dr. Abbot, however, allows for variations, and points out that there might be a year's lag in the repetition of 1933 weather conditions. Atlanta weather authorities said that Dr. Abbot's observations would doubtless hold good on wide areas of the world's surface, but questioned whether the repetition would apply to a small area—Atlanta, for instance—whose variations would be absorbed in the general weather scheme.

A comparison of November weather—temperature and rainfall—with the weather reports of November, 1910, as shown in The Constitution, do bear out the Abbot theory. Temperature high and low are about the same, as well as drought conditions. The rainfall deficiency on November 25, 1910, was 1.09 inches.

The rainfall deficiency Monday for November was 2.32 inches, which might be reduced to the 1910 figure by light showers between now and November 25. Reading the 1910 predictions from day to day there is only an occasional expectation of rain. No reports were printed in 1933, 48 years ago.

The conclusion from Dr. Abbot's theory is that it marks a long step toward the day of long-range forecasting, when temperature and precipitation for a given area can be predicted years in advance. It is not claimed, however, that such forecasting is yet perfected. An enormous amount of work, it was pointed out, would be necessary to bring about this condition.

Bernarr MacFadden Sues Wife and Is Sued

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Bernarr MacFadden, publisher and exponent of physical culture, and his wife, Mary, have filed divorce actions in New Jersey's court of chancery, each charging the other with misconduct. The divorce actions grew out of the wife's suit last spring for the enforcement of a separation agreement under which the wife was to receive an allowance of $15,000 a year. She charged he had failed to comply with the agreement and he attributed the failure to "financial reverses" and filed a counterclaim for divorce, naming one "Baron Rosencrans" as co-respondent.

The wife then denied the husband's allegations and charged him with misconduct, naming as co-respondent one "Betty Bennett." Shortly after this charge was placed before the court the husband named another co-respondent—"one Charles Wynne."

Baron Iver Rosencrans named in the MacFadden suit is not the husband of the former Miss Rebekah Lowe, of Atlanta, but his nephew, Baron Marcus Rosencrans, who married Miss Lowe, died recently in Virginia.

DEKALB DRIVER HELD IN FATAL AUTO CRASH

H. H. Smith, who said he resides near Brown's Mill in DeKalb county, Monday was released under $500 bond on a charge of manslaughter brought by a coroner's jury investigating the death of Clyde Breedlove in an automobile accident on Redan road Saturday night. Smith and Breedlove were returning from a dance at Durham's park, it was testified, when the former's car ran off an embankment and rolled over several times. Breedlove suffered a fractured skull and died almost instantly. Smith said he was unable to release Breedlove and that while he had gone to summon help the latter died. The coroner's jury found that both men were under the influence of liquor at the time of the crash.

$268,399 RAISED BY CHEST FORCES

$154,296 Still to Be Subscribed With Only Two Days to Go.

Final tabulations of Community Chest workers given at Monday's noon hour meeting showed that a total of $268,399 had been raised since the last meeting Friday. This amount, plus the $207,682 previously reported, brings the grand total raised to date to $476,081.

With the Community Chest goal set at $422,086, there remains $154,296 to be raised by the time the campaign drive closes Wednesday night.

"If the workers maintain their daily average," Herbert Porter, chairman of the Chest, said, "this amount will be raised, and the Community Chest will have attained its objective by Wednesday night." In expectation that this will be accomplished, plans are being made for a farewell meeting Wednesday night, at which time the final and complete returns will be given.

No Meeting for Today. In order that the workers may devote all time possible to raising the additional $154,296 needed, announcement was made that no meeting will be held Tuesday. It is planned to stage the farewell meeting Wednesday night at 6 o'clock, at which time all workers are urged to be present. "We must know by 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon just who will be present," Mr. Porter said. Captains are urged to report to their majors, the majors to their colonels and the colonels to Chest headquarters, stating exactly how many of their workers will be present for the dinner meeting.

Workers Encouraged. Frank Neely, president of the Chest; Frank Miller, director, and others also addressed the gathering, and urged the workers on to a complete victory. Both executives were unstinting in their praise for the unselfishness with which the workers have served, and their loyalty to the cause.

The list of 100 per cent firms announced at Monday's meeting were: Rich's, Inc., O. A. Smith Company, Frank H. Reynolds & Company, R. C. Company, Zachry's, Prior Tire Company and the Pillsbury Flour Company. Every single executive and employee of these firms gave or subscribed to the Community Chest, swelling the list of 100 per cent firms to approximately 125.

"Advance Gifts" Leads. The additional total of $268,399 announced Monday included advance gifts division, $32,875; groups division, $14,337; individual division, $13,095; and division, $100, and out-of-town division, $200. The biggest report of the day was in the advance gifts division, Harrison Jones, chairman, $27,675. Candler Dobbs, also of the advance gifts division, was second with a report of $4,025. In the groups division, W. A. Parker, chairman, commercial, reported $3,549; George Winship, chairman, industrial, $1,883; Aubrey Milam, chairman, utilities, $1,455; and James A. Wells, chairman, public officials, $2,442.

RECEIVERSHIP PLOT CHARGED TO RITTER

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Efforts to link Federal Judge Halsted L. Ritter and his former law partner in an alleged conspiracy to bring about bankruptcy proceedings against the palatial Whitehall hotel, at Palm Beach, and "exploit the property for the benefit of the conspirators" was launched today at a house judiciary subcommittee hearing into the official conduct of the judge.

With exoneration or impeachment proceedings against Judge Ritter as the ultimate result of a proposed four-day hearing, the first day was devoted almost entirely to an expose of fees and past litigations involving the hotel, which is the site of the former home of late Henry M. Flagler, pioneer east coast developer.

Members of the committee are Representatives Tarver, of Georgia, chairman; Miller, of Arkansas, and Sumners, of Texas, all democrats, and Hooper, of Michigan, republican. Representative Weaver, democrat, of North Carolina, was not able to attend because of the illness of his wife. The four members of the subcommittee, composed of three democrats and one republican, occupied the federal bench, with Judge Ritter listening intently from near his counsel's table to the detailed proceedings, that were aired before a packed courtroom. A. L. Rankin, of West Palm Beach, former law partner of Judge Ritter, testified at the opening of the hearing that he received $90,000 for his part in handling the receivership of the hotel as one of the attorneys for the complainants. Later, he said, he gave Judge Ritter $5,000, which he said was in payment "on a debt."

B. F. Pate, another West Palm Beach attorney, delivered the afternoon session with testimony regarding a report he said he heard concerning a payment of $25,000 Rankin is alleged to have made to Ritter.

Examined by Charles C. Youmans, head of a group of lawyers named by the committee to examine witnesses, Pate revealed what he said was the source of the report at the insistence of the committee. He said it had been made to him by J. K. Williamson and Marshall B. Wood, two other West Palm Beach lawyers.

POWER PROBE DATA IS GIVEN COMMISSION

Information requested by the Georgia public service commission was submitted Monday by the Georgia Power Company in a hearing on power rates and the commission postponed further hearing of the case until Thursday to permit Assistant Attorney-General John Goree to study the new material. The power company submitted about two-thirds of the material he requested recently concerning purchase of new power plants by the company, Goree said.

REPORT BY JONES
SOUGHT BY SOLONS
Senator Group Asks Speed
After Refusal for RFC Loan Data.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Evidence purporting to show that Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Corporation, was the beneficiary of loans by that agency to corporations in which he was secretly interested was disclosed today to be at the bottom of the current senate inquiry into R. P. C. loans.

The investigating committee has asked Jones for a report on the charges and today at an executive session requested him to speed up the report. Meanwhile members are studying the law to determine whether such loans will be illegal.

There is nothing in the law creating the R. P. C. which made it illegal to lend money to companies in which directors were interested, and if such loans are unlawful it is because of some other general law, they said.

A law firm in Fort Worth, Texas, Boykin & Ray, has sent to the committee documents to support their contention that R. P. C. loans have been made to corporations owned and controlled by Jones.

Court records and other evidence were submitted by the lawyers to show that Jones was connected with the Bankers Mortgage Company and the Midland Mortgage Company, each of which have been loaned $1,500,000.

Penetro, the mutton suet salve, is the quickest, deepest penetrating cold salve ever developed. GRAU PREPARING AGAINST REVOLT

By J. P. McKnight.
HAVANA, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Continued revolutionary activity in the interior and elaborate precautions taken by Colonel Fulgencio Batista's army against disorders in the capital today served to convince observers that the Ramon Grau San Martin government takes seriously the report that new revolution is brewing.

Meanwhile, efforts were on foot to reach peaceful settlement of the island's political quarrels. Negotiations to this end were being conducted amid utmost secrecy.

In Oriente, Camaguey and Mantanzas provinces rebel bands were reported active, with Batista's troops striving to crush the fires of rebellion.

Rebels were busy about the towns of Camaguey and Niquero, in Oriente, while soldiers armed with machine guns left Santiago and Manzanillo, on the south coast, in launches seeking insurgents along the Aserrado coast.

Reports from Mantanzas said Manuel B. Cruz, former leader in the ranks of the old conservative party, was camped near Agramonte with some 200 well armed men, equipped with field tents and other necessary campaign equipment.

Mantanzas troops had made no effort to dislodge Cruz, the report said.

In Havana, troops continued replacing machine guns and light artillery pieces protected by sand bags and base work, to cover principal approaches to the city and vital strategic points such as railway, street car and highway bridges.

Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis and the Atlanta & West Point railroads had had the low rate in effect for several months.

"EXPERIMENTAL REDUCTION"
ANNOUNCED AT WASHINGTON
WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The Southern railway today announced an "experimental reduction" in its basic passenger rate of 3.6 cents a mile to 3 cents a mile and withdrawal of the surcharge on sleeping or parlor cars, and 1-2 cents a mile in coaches.

Frank L. Jenkins, passenger traffic manager, said the new rates would be effective December 1 and would extend for a period of six months. The reductions are in line with similar rates adopted by other important lines serving the south.

Jenkins said the Southern's recent experiments on some of its divisions with the 1-2 cents a mile coach rate had increased the volume of traffic, especially short haul travel, to such an extent as to show a substantial increase in passenger revenue on the divisions affected.

Jenkins said the reduction to 3 cents a mile and withdrawal of the surcharge would mean a saving of approximately 1 cent a mile to sleeping and parlor car travelers.

RECOGNITION STEP HAILED BY KALININ
President of U. S. S. R.
Sees Move as Boon to Progress of Mankind.

MOSCOW, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Mikhail Kalinin, the president of soviet Russia, expressed the conviction today that resumption of diplomatic relations between the United States and Russia will greatly benefit "not only their mutual interests but also the economic and cultural progress of mankind."

"I strongly believe that now will begin an era of fruitful and manifold co-operation between our two nations," he asserted.

Later he received American correspondents informally—wearing a worn brown sweater, a blue serge suit and a soft white collar—and told them that "the fact that normal relations are now established is very important in itself, but will gain in significance if both sides make proper use of it."

From other official sources also came expressions of pleasure that America had recognized Russia.

The newspaper Izvestia said the action "will strengthen peace and help decide many urgent problems" and N. K. Krestinsky, acting commissar of foreign affairs, said that "the move would reduce the possibility of conflict in the far east."

The whole soviet press emphasized that it was "a great victory for the soviet peace policy."

"In past 16 years the toilers of the cities and the villages of the soviet republics have made world examples of tremendous creative work," Kalinin said in his speech to the United States.

LITVINOFF AND OFFICIALS RESUME CONVERSATIONS
WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Discussion of trade relations between the soviet and the United States were resumed today by Litvinoff and his claims and the proposed consular treaty as Maxim Litvinoff and governmental officials resumed conversations on affairs left unsettled by resignation.

The impression grew in circles close to the negotiators that the soviet commissar of foreign affairs might leave details of negotiations for soviet purchases in this country to Alexander A. Trovansky, Amtorg, the official soviet trade agency.

Officials have said, however, that trade would be among the subjects reviewed before Litvinoff leaves for New York, preparatory to sailing for home.

The time for his departure remained indefinite today, but a dinner in his honor has been set for New York on Friday night.

Litvinoff held a conference of more than an hour today with state department officials and William C. Bullitt, who is to be the first American ambassador to Moscow.

Meanwhile, Bullitt talked with Acting Secretary Morgenthau, of the treasury, who has directed the involved parleys on Russian trade deals for formal presentation.

Smith W. Brookhart, trade advisor to the farm administration, also conferred with Bullitt.

Morgenthau is well versed in other parts of Russian affairs and Joseph H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Corporation, said today that the question of terms still remained to be settled before the consummation of any Russian deal.

Among these is an offer by the soviet for approximately 1,000,000 bales of American cotton; about 1,000,000 yards of cotton cloth and around $30,000,000 worth of meat products.

M. Avenol planned to go to Rome tonight to attend the funeral of Senator Vittorio Scialoja, one of the authors of the League covenant, who died at the age of 79 on Sunday.

Avenol expected to discuss disarmament problems and Italy's reported threat to resign from the League with Premier Mussolini.

LEAGUE WITHDRAWAL IS HINTED BY ITALY
ROME, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Roman newspapers today entered the offensive launched by northern Italian journals to force an early convocation of a four-power arms conference with hints that Italy may otherwise leave the League of Nations.

The result was that the full force of the blackshirt propaganda machine concentrated its efforts to swing present discussions of the disarmament tangle away from Geneva.

Well informed circles re-echoed the belief that Italy would withdraw from the League and it was learned that the fascist grand council will meet December 5 to discuss Italy's membership in the Geneva council.

The Tribune said the disarmament question was made "grave" by the procedure adopted at Geneva and charged that the League "complicates the question it considers."

It added that the "Geneva procedure has made the disarmament question a technical complications" and mentioned that the American recognition of soviet Russia and the Pan-American congress in Montevideo, among the proofs that the League is not necessary for the settlement of important questions.

Semi-official spokesmen said if representatives of Germany, France, Italy and Great Britain would meet here the United States also would be invited and that it would be possible that Russia and Japan would be given invitations as well.

DENTAL COLLEGE TAXES NOT PAID, SUIT CLAIMS
Alleging that Atlanta-Southern Dental College owes the City of Atlanta $8,700 principal, besides interest, in uncollected taxes from 1920 to 1932, both inclusive, a taxpayer's suit was brought in Superior Court Monday seeking to compel Riley F. Elder, as municipal revenue collector, to collect balance by levy and sale.

The petition sets forth that no taxes had been paid upon the college property at Courtland street and Forrest avenue since 1926, giving the value of the property as $125,000, until city council passed a resolution on August 3, 1933, authorizing the collector to accept a 25 per cent settlement of taxes due from 1926 through 1932, and that the college then paid $377.25 for each of these years.

Why Hospitals Use A LIQUID LAXATIVE

The dose can be measured to the drop, and the action controlled. Pills and tablets containing drugs of violent action are hard on the bowels, and frequently habit-forming.

Hospitals and doctors have always used liquid laxatives. And the public is fast returning to laxatives in liquid form. Do you know why?

A properly prepared liquid laxative brings a perfect movement. There is no discomfort at the time and no weakness after. You don't have to take "a double dose" a day or two later.

The wrong cathartic may keep you constipated as long as you keep on using it.

Can Constipation be Overcome?

"Yes!" say medical men. "Yes!" say thousands who have followed this sensible medical advice: 1. Select a good liquid laxative. 2. Take the dose you find suited to your system. 3. Gradually reduce the dose until the bowels are moving regularly without aid.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, used in this way, has the average person's bowels as regular as clockwork in a few weeks' time. Why not try it? Some pill or tablet may be more convenient to carry. But there is no "convenience" in any cathartic taken so frequently that you must carry it wherever you go!

How to Choose a Laxative

In buying any laxative, read the label. If it contains one doubtful drug, don't take it. If you don't know anything about a preparation, ask some doctor about it. The temporary relief you get from some synthetic, habit-forming cathartic may irritate the kidneys.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescriptive preparation with nothing to conceal. Its ingredients are stated on the label. By using it, you may avoid

INSTALLMENT XXXV.

They found Beatrice Randall waiting inside the entrance at Black's. Not difficult to sift her from the pack. A knot of green orchids nestled in the silver fox under her delicate pointed chin, and the hat poised pertly on her small head was the ultimate in fashion and in costliness. Masculine heads turned for a closer approximation of the solitary figure with the smouldering black eyes and the air of detachment. Sue, in tweed coat suit with tailored white blouse under the beige coat, and Mathilda in the customary office regalia, distinguished more serviceable than pictorial, were as field daisies to an orchid.

Greetings were scant. A table at the far corner of the room, and a waiter bending for orders.

"Broiled mushrooms on toast," Beatrice ordered without deigning to study the extended menu. "Do you have them under glass?"

"No, madame, but they may be ordered."

"How long?"

"Fifteen, twenty minutes."

"Don't bother. The others will do very well."

"Very well, madame." The waiter turned to Sue.

"A pot of coffee, please."

The waiter lifted his pencil, expectantly.

"That will be all. Coffee, very hot, please."

"I'll have lamb chops, au gratin."

potatoes and a lettuce and tomato salad," Mathilda said. "Yes, and lemon meringue pie."

The waiter responded with a grin. Here was a woman, not a bird.

"Sorry to trouble you," Beatrice Randall addressed Sue, unfettered the silver fox with white-gloved fingers. "It was imperative that I talk with you."

"I judged as much," Sue, steady eyes fixed on the pallor of Beatrice Randall's face. Could it be real? Ivory chalk taking tinge from the green orchids. Thin scarlet lips. Thin flaring nostrils, beaked.

"I'll be brief," Beatrice Randall avoided Sue's inquiring eyes. "Your father has been in touch with me. He tells me your family needs money."

Sue, stung by the surprise attack. Wavering, assembling her wits somehow.

"My father is dead."

"To be sure. Then let's say your mother's husband, Henschler, Herman Henschler, isn't that the name? He explained that he is without funds. Also, that there is a young brother to be supported."

"I'm taking care of my brother, and of my mother, too."

"Yes—that is, Jeffrey is looking after them. Or rather Jeffrey's money. Quite all right, of course, except it must be a bit embarrassing, being kept by a stranger. Effect of a charity dole."

Sue, recoiling, as from a blow: "There's no use in discussing a situation," she said, "with which you are not familiar."

"Quite right." The flaring nostrils dilated. "Family matters are stupidly dilated. I shouldn't have mentioned them except Mr. Henschler seemed quite upset. But I'm not here to talk family. I'm here to ask you a question. How much do you want to divorce Jeffrey? Quickly and quietly."

"Divorce—Jeffrey? Sue, blinking her eyes. Faces in the restaurant, objects seen through a haze.

"Why, yes. You expected as much, didn't you? Jeffrey leaving you—I thought you'd understand. I'm prepared to take care of you rather handsomely, under certain conditions, of course."

"But I don't want anything to divorce Jeffrey. If it's money you mean, I couldn't possibly."

"Just a minute," Mathilda interrupted. "Let's know about this very handsome offer. Did Jeffrey Randall authorize you to negotiate with Mrs. Randall?"

Sue, gulping water. The haze was a black wall. Not a red wall. She pushed back her hat. Jeffrey had sent this woman, Bea, whom he professed to despise—sent her to buy back his freedom. Divorce. Since morning the world had been ringing in her ears. Divorce. Had the whole marital world become a waste in which bonds flew asunder as earth is reeled by a bomb, leaving a gaping wound where grass and flowers and fruits might have grown?

The waiter returned with the orders. When he was gone Beatrice Randall leaned forward and said between glittering pointed teeth, "I asked Miss Sanyal a question."

"Mrs. Randall—after a fashion," Beatrice Randall's laugh was as supple as a cat's. "You are her representative."

"I am," Mathilda attacked her chops.

"Interesting. One would suppose a business woman, like Miss Sanyal, quite capable of looking after her own affairs."

"Mrs. Randall is capable, but not in the mood. And you haven't answered my question. Do you, by any chance, represent Jeffrey Randall?"

Cunning pinched the dark face to an even more aquiline thinness.

"Am I representing Jeffrey Randall? On that point," Beatrice Randall said, "I must allow you to judge for yourself."

"We've already reached a decision," Mathilda announced. "If Jeffrey Randall wants a divorce, he'll come to his wife and tell her so. Until he does, she's remaining as is."

"At the cost of any sum you might name?"

"At the cost of any sum you could name."

BIGGEST OCTOBER IN 5 YEARS!
BIGGEST NOVEMBER IN 8 YEARS!

AIR LINE EXECUTIVE
PRAISES BODY LINES

"The new Studebakers very effectively approximate modern airplane streamlining," says W. A. Patterson, president, United Air Lines' Division, a pioneer in high speed skyway transportation. Studebaker's streamlining means economy and safety.

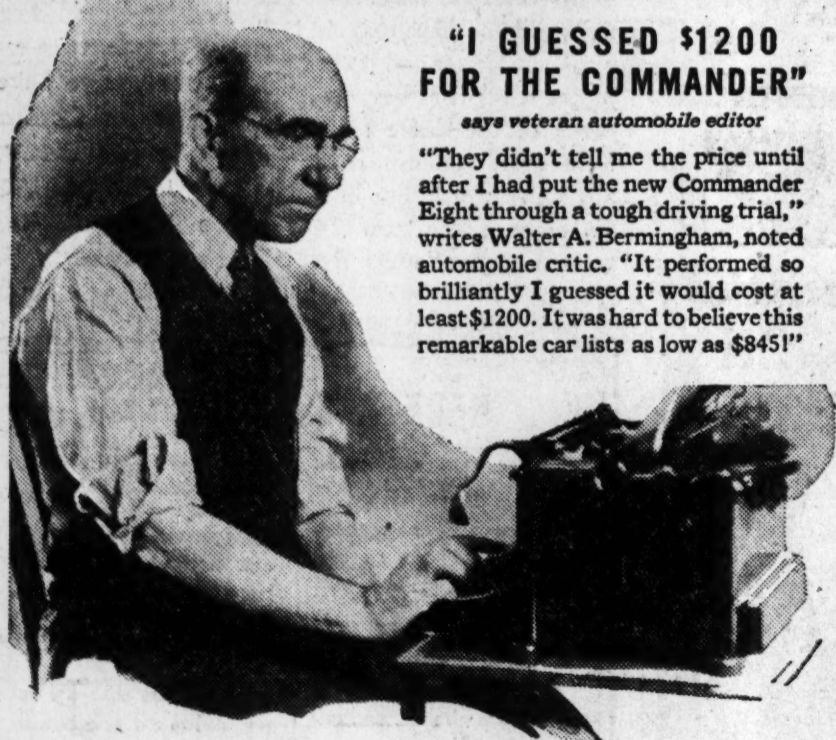

FROM THE SPEEDWAY
COMES THEIR STAMINA

FROM THE SKYWAY
COMES THEIR STYLE

FAMED RACING PILOT
MARVELS AT CHASSIS

"I believe I could almost beat them all at Indianapolis with the new Dictator. It has real racing car stamina," states Tony Gulotta who drove one of the 85% stock Studebakers that performed so sensationally in the 500-mile classic earlier this year. Seven of the first twelve winners at the last Indianapolis race were Studebaker powered.

"I GUESSED $1200 FOR THE COMMANDER"

says veteran automobile editor

"They didn't tell me the price until after I had put the new Commander Eight through a tough driving trial," writes Walter A. Birmingham, noted automobile critic. "It performed so brilliantly I guessed it would cost at least $1200. It was hard to believe this remarkable car lists as low as $845!"

New low prices
give America the thrill of years!

DEMAND for the new Studebakers is enormous. The biggest October sales in five years are now certain to be followed by the biggest November in eight years! Imagine it! Finer Studebakers than the best that were ever produced before—now $200 to $900 under the prices that just recently prevailed!

These new Studebakers are superbly designed in the manner of the latest transport speedplanes. Their armor-plated steel structure bodies are lavishly fitted inside with every conceivable convenience. They are exceptionally roomy and comfortable cars. Rear seats ride like front seats!

Furthermore, these Studebakers are truly "automatic automobiles"—equipped with numerous uncanny "mechanical brains" that leave you scarcely anything to do but steer. And thousands of owners find cost per mile of operation extremely low.

All the traditional Studebaker fineness of materials and workmanship has been maintained despite these almost unbelievable new low prices. That's why throngs are crowding Studebaker showrooms to see these amazing new cars with their speedway stamina and skyway style. Take a convincing trial drive yourself—today!

Composer Near Death.
LONDON, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Sir Edward Elgar, dean of British composers, suffered a relapse today and his condition was reported serious. He underwent an operation in October but previously no worry had been expressed as to his chances for recovery.

The vibration of a building when trucks passed it was recently shown by a record on a photographic film.

LABOR OPPOSES BUILDING CODE

Agreement on Wages Demanded Before Approval of Charter.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Organized workers as represented by the American Federation of Labor, today opposed before NRA officials the proposed master construction code and demanded that employer and employee agree on wage scales before a trade charter is approved.

William Green, president of the federation, and M. J. McDonough, president of its building trades department, argued before Hugh S. Johnson, the industrial administrator, that the code was unjust to labor.

McDonough, announcing that the code should provide a 30-hour or less work week, opposed the proposed 40-cent-and-hour minimum for unskilled labor and asserted that unless labor was given better terms the unions would "have to appeal to higher powers."

VOLE PROBE GIVEN REPORTS OF FRAUD

Ballots of Dead Men Said Counted for Long Ally in Louisiana.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The senate committee investigating the election of Senator John H. Overton, democrat, Louisiana, today heard witnesses tell of notices of dead men voting by non-residents and election of watchers for former Senator Edwin S. Broussard during the counting of votes.

George W. Hunter testified James Brooks, drawn as a Broussard commissioner, served as a commissioner for Overton, ally of Senator Huey Long, and said he changed candidates for a job with the New Orleans dock board paying $300 a month.

Charles J. Pohlman testified one man said he had lost his poll tax receipt but later returned with one to vote after an Overton watcher told him to step outside as "somebody might have found his receipt."

Pohlman said he protested but that it was not his business.

Bankers testified drafts amounting to about $10,000 were drawn on Seymour Weiss, Long political organization treasurer, for the 30 days prior to the primary.

The bankers could recall the indorsements on two of the drafts and that they were P. M. Adams, former highway official, and S. Y. Yates, who was not identified.

Herman Lind, assistant cashier of the American Bank and Trust Co., testified that Weiss had a liability account amounting to $22,215 that was paid December 7, 1932, after several years standing. He said he secured by stocks two indorsees, Mike Moss and Irving Moss. He said the record indicated it was paid in cash but may have been paid by check. Senator Overton objected to the testimony but was overruled.

Chairman Connolly, of the committee, said it had been subjected to unjust criticism during the hearing and asked the public and the press to suspend judgment until it was ended. He said witnesses would be heard for two additional weeks.

SETTLE'S BALLOON MISSING IN JERSEY

Swinging beneath a giant balloon, two daring Americans attached to the nation's fighting forces today shot into the earth's third and outermost atmospheric layer—the stratosphere—in search of data on the nature of the universe. As darkness fell the giant bag was reported slowly descending somewhere in the Washington, D. C., region.

The voyagers, Lieutenant Commander T. G. W. Settle and Major Chester L. Fordney, made the fourth recorded flight in all history in a free balloon into the stratosphere to reach a height which the skipper estimated at in excess of 58,000 feet.

That would be almost 11 miles, as recorded on the altimeter inside the black-and-silver, seven-foot spheroid in which they two men made the trip so far from mother earth. Their "trip" was apparently was about a mile short of the almost 12 miles which the Russian balloonists claimed to have attained last September 30.

But today's foray into one of the last unknown frontiers within man's current reach, in one respect partook of the remarkable on a scale never before attempted. As Settle, attached to the navy, and Fordney, to the marines, cruised beneath a sky described as a "beautiful blue," hanging 58,000 feet above the earth, they talked with those on earth below them, casually, calmly, in the fashion of men telephoning to a friend to inform him of the progress of their trip. They were not carrying a cup of coffee, as they believed everything was going off according to schedule.

Particularly were they sure that the bubbling tanks of liquid oxygen on which their lives depended would sustain them once again set foot on solid earth.

58,000-FOOT ALTITUDE GAINED BY BALLOON

AKRON, Ohio, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Swinging beneath a giant balloon, two daring Americans attached to the nation's fighting forces today shot into the earth's third and outermost atmospheric layer—the stratosphere—in search of data on the nature of the universe. As darkness fell the giant bag was reported slowly descending somewhere in the Washington, D. C., region.

Specific Mission.

Taking off at Akron airport at 9:27 a. m. (E. S. T.), the adventurers had the specific mission of studying the nature of the cosmic ray, that elusive beam bombarding the earth which has claimed the undivided attention of famous scientists for years. The rays, 100 times as powerful in the stratosphere as at sea level, were to be recorded on delicate instruments carried by the aeronauts.

If, in summing up the results of today's experiment, it is found that Dr. Arthur H. Compton, of the University of Chicago, is correct in contending the rays are electrons, scientists possibly would see support for the theory that the universe originated in an explosion thousands of millions of years ago.

Or, if it is found that the rays are photons, or bullets, like, as Dr. Robert A. Millikan, of California Institute of Technology contends, those same scientists may conclude that the universe is "immortal" and self-renewing. The photons, according to the Millikan theory, represent left-over energy released in space in the process of forming new atoms of matter to replenish dying stars.

Study Necessary.

Whatever they found concerning the cosmic ray will not be known until a study of the recordings of their instruments is completed.

The aeronauts carried two "coinci-

Venus Nears Earth, Shines During Day

A brilliant star shining in the daytime was the scene which greeted Atlantans who gazed skyward Monday as Venus, the earth's close heavenly neighbor, shone so brilliantly that even the sun failed to dim its beauty.

Among the many Atlantans viewing the heavenly scene were Judge John D. Humphries, of Fulton superior court, well-known amateur astronomer, and several guests who gazed through the jurist's powerful telescope in Morningside Park. Judge Humphries said it will be two years before Venus again approaches the earth and presents such a picture.

2 MEN WOUNDED IN HOLDUP BATTLE

A white man and a negro who, according to police, were meeting at a rendezvous to pay off a winner in the "number racket" were ambushed by four armed negroes at a house on Lamar street, off Georgia avenue, at about 8 o'clock Monday night. A gun fight resulted and Cecil Johnson, 30, of 1733 Polkman road, was shot in the hand and stabbed in the neck, and Otis Carr, 25-year-old negro, who insisted he was just passing when the shooting began, was gravely wounded.

Robert Wood, 30-year-old negro, of 342 Irwin street, told the police that he and Johnson went to the home of W. E. Cox, negro, at 146 Lamar street, for the purpose of paying off a "numbers" winner. Johnson had a large roll of bills and Wood had a sack containing $16 in small change and "a little black bag" containing a larger amount of money. They transacted some business in the house, Wood said, and left.

When they got to the bottom of the front steps four armed negroes jumped at them from behind a bush. Johnson was knocked down by a negro who cut him on the throat. Another negro grabbed the black bag and all of them fled. Wood said he opened fire with a .38 caliber pistol and that Johnson, regaining his feet, also opened fire.

The negro who proved to be Carr had fallen earlier, with bullet wounds in the right arm, chest and back. A bullet fired at the two by the fleeing negroes struck Johnson in the right hand.

The negro Wood said that he and Johnson went to the house to pay $10 to one George Crumley in a lottery game but Johnson, when he had been treated at Georgia Baptist hospital, went to the police station of his own volition and reported that he had gone to the house to sell an automobile to one Lloyd Cox. He provided a permit to carry firearms.

Johnson and Wood were arrested on charges of disorderly conduct and released in bail of $500 each, the cases returnable to recorder's court on December 5.

The negro Carr, who gave a Little street address, was in a critical condition at Grady hospital. Detectives began an investigation of his connection with the incident. In Wood's possession police said they found a book containing numerous names and addresses and a listing of various sums of money paid out.

ence counters" and another meter, as well as a block of tungsten to carry on the experiments. Dr. R. J. Stephenson, University of Chicago, an associate of Dr. Compton's, was in charge of the ground phases of the work.

Accompanying Settle and Fordney, too, were some one-cell organisms for further experiment in determining the effect of the cosmic ray on living matter.

In perfect weather, the two navy men sailed away from the field after a wait to permit the sun to expand the 125,000 cubic feet of hydrogen gas within the 600,000-cubic foot bag and thus increase its lifting capacity. Six hours and 23 minutes later Settle told Admiral King, of the naval bureau of aeronautics:

"We're at the peak now, and I think we'll start descending."

Throughout the flight, as the hydrogen heated by the sun's rays drew them upward, they maintained contact with the ground.

Comfortable.

Reporting that they were comfortable, were working without gloves in a temperature of around 45 degrees while outside the stratosphere was many degrees below freezing, and that the sky was of an amazing blue.

Today's flight had been preceded by that of the three Russians who claimed to have reached 11.8 miles, and those of the Swiss scientists, Auguste Piccard, in May, 1931, and August, 1932.

ANTI-NAZI PASTORS ARE REINSTATED

3 Ministers Accused of 'Offering Resistance' To National Socialists.

BERLIN, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Three German pastors whose names became symbols of a struggle against an absolute Hitlerite church were ordered reinstated today in the pastorates from which they were ousted last week by the Nazi German Christians.

Reichsbishop Ludwig Mueller, yielding to the pressure of non-Nazi opposition to what they called "militant paganism," rescinded the suspension order and notified the trio, the Reverends Martin Niemöller, E. F. Rabenau and F. Scharf, of the decision.

The pastors were accused of "offering resistance to the national socialists (Nazis)" and the German Christian spirit regarding the necessary reconstruction of the German Evangelical church.

Bishop Mueller's act was called a "victory" by the non-Nazi churchmen in a threatened schism that included demands for anti-Semitism in the German Evangelical church, counter demands for the resignation of two Hitlerite church leaders, Dr. Reinhold Krause and Bishop Joaquin Hossensfelder and Dr. Krause's address at a mass meeting that asked elimination of the Old Testament and a change in attitude toward the crucifix as a religious symbol.

Conformation was given out today as to the status of the demands that Bishop Hossensfelder resign, but sentiment at the reichsbishop's chancery indicated that Bishop Mueller remained adamant in his desire to retain his favorite aide.

Nazis Order Seizure Of Einstein's Property

BERLIN, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Secret police today ordered the seizure of all property of Dr. Albert Einstein, famous physicist and Mrs. Einstein, by virtue of the law for confiscation of communist property.

Notice of this seizure was served in the official Gazette Reichsanzeiger, which listed "all mobile and immobile goods, particularly bank accounts and other deposits" to be confiscated in favor of the Prussian state. Professor Einstein, now at Princeton University, where he holds a chair in physics, fled to Belgium with his wife following the advent of the Nazi regime in Germany.

University of Georgia Alumni To Hold Banquet Friday Evening

The annual banquet of the University of Georgia Alumni Association will be held Friday evening at 6:45 o'clock at the Biltmore hotel. This affair has for several years preceded the Tech-Georgia football game and is always well attended by Georgia alumni throughout the state, who join with the Atlanta alumni and friends of the university in celebrating this great football classic.

ATTRACTIVE GIFT SUGGESTION
Pattern 1588.
There isn't a feminine creature in this whole wide world who could boast of too much lingerie. There's always room for one more slip—especially if it's a perfect fitting model—and here it is! Quite the easiest garment to make—just two pieces to sew together, but there's been planned to mould and fit the figure smoothly, while built-up shoulder straps banish the annoyance of slipping straps. Lingerie may be used as a trim. Ideal fashioned of crepe, satin or one of the new washable rayons—and could you think of a more perfect Christmas gift?

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:
I am a bride of a few months, very young and a bit homesick for the big family I left when I got married. I live just a few miles from my former home and frequently take over to see my folks. Every time I go my husband gets indignant with me and raises a row. Now don't you think it is only natural for me to want to see my family and don't you think my husband is unreasonable in resenting it?
S. T.

ANSWER:
Your impulses are natural and while your husband's attitude is unreasonable it is not hard to understand. He is a bit jealous of your family's hold on your interest and affection. His love for you is greedy and grasping. Because he is content to be at home with you alone he expects you to experience the same sort of contentment. He makes no allowances for the catenary change that takes place in a young girl's life when she leaves a big jolly family where banter and laughter and noisy conversation echo through the house from morning till night, leaves that sort of a home as empty as one that is empty save for her presence in it during the long day when her husband is at work.

He doesn't realize that his own case is different from hers in that he is occupied during the day with his business, just as he was formerly with his wife. Perhaps he can be made to realize all of this but it cannot be accomplished by heated argument, nor by the ignoring of his protests.

Concession, concession, this is the keynote of happy home life, and even when you live under the roof with some other has to learn to make concessions. If we get along amicably with family and friends we have eternally to concede some point to compromise with others when our tastes and desires run contrary to theirs.

A young bride homesick for her family, within easy reach of them, can pay her visits when her husband is away from home and make it a rule to be back when he returns. He wants to believe that he has the power to make her happy though all the rest of the world were swallowed up. He wants to find her at home when he comes in and to have her share his contentment in their being alone together. If a clever girl can give him all of this without separating herself from her family.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:
What can I do when the boy with whom I have been going for a while leaves me because of a falsehood told to him by one of my so-called friends?
M. J.

ANSWER:
If the boy loves you (and you have always been truthful with him) he won't believe a tale by one of your friends. If he doesn't love you he may believe the story or, what is more likely, he may use it as an excuse for making a getaway. After you have denied the charge and told him that it is untrue, there is nothing more you can do. CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:
I have asked a girl to marry me and she accepted me. The next time I went to see her she had changed her mind. She said that when I was with her she had no doubt of her love for me but after I left she began to doubt it. She takes everything in life rather lightly. Bearing this in mind, what advice would you give me as to how to proceed with her?

ANSWER:
Be independent, stay away from her for a long time, and when you see her make no mention of the proposal. If she cares anything at all about you, your indifference will bring her around.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Molloy-Henry Wedding Plans Enlist Wide Social Interest

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 20.—Social importance is attached to the announcement of the wedding plans of Miss Catherine Pearson Molloy and James Dumas Henry, of Atlanta, Ga., and Miami Beach, Fla., who have chosen Saturday, December 16, as the date for their marriage. The ceremony will be brilliantly solemnized at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon at the home of the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Joseph Molloy, at 909 Lakeshore drive. A representative assemblage of western and southern society will witness the marriage service.

Mr. Molloy will give his daughter in marriage, and Mr. Henry will be attended by his brother, Albert Lafayette Henry Jr., of Nashville, Tenn., as best man. The ushers include Hugh M. Eaton Jr., of Akron, Ohio; Charles Winn Canfield, of Chicago and Miami Beach, Fla.; and J. Russell Scott, of Chicago.

Miss Molloy has chosen as her maid of honor Miss Virginia M. Eaton, of Akron, Ohio, who was her intimate friend and roommate at Briarcliff school in New York. Acting as bridesmaids will be Miss Dorothy Dewes and Miss Grace Fitzmorris, of Chicago, and Miss Chloe Louise Watson, of Winnetka, Ill.

The offices of the state advisory board of the public works administration announced Monday there was a "mistaken impression" in some circles that it was cheaper for local governmental agencies to let bids on eligible projects privately, than under P. W. A. labor equipment.

The statement was made at the same time the board announced that the time in which applications for grants or for loans and grants, will be closed on December 15, and urged the various counties and municipalities to apply at once for eligible projects.

As for the cost of projects under P. W. A. requirements, the board said that reports of two recent lettings, one in Georgia and the other in Tennessee, supported the theory that it is more advantageous to finance such eligible projects through the public works administration.

One case cited involved plans for a waterworks improvement in Georgia. The low bid under the P. W. A. labor requirements was $125,000, but the low bid under usual labor requirements $110,000, but the government allotted a grant of $30,000 to the project, thus enabling the local governmental unit to save about $25,000 on the deal. Under similar conditions, a Tennessee governmental unit was able to save about $18,000, on a somewhat smaller project, the board said.

In its statement urging prompt application for grants, and for loans and grants, the board said "it is not probable that any applications submitted after December 15 will be considered."

"An application submitted to the state advisory board, 722 Citizens and Southern National bank building, Atlanta, will be given prompt attention."

A. A. U. HEADS WARN GERMANY ABOUT OLYMPICS

U. S. Will Not Compete If Jewish Ban Prevails.

By Foster Bailey, Associated Press Sports Writer.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The Amateur Athletic Union, most powerful sports governing body of the United States, today warned Germany that unless restrictions on Jewish participation in the 1936 Olympic games at Berlin are rescinded the United States will send a team to the eleventh Olympiad.

By an almost unanimous vote the national convention of the association adopted a resolution setting forth its attitude and asked that American delegates to the international Olympic committee appraise that committee and the German Olympic body of its stand.

A guarantee of no discrimination against Jews given by the German delegation to the last international Olympic committee session has been violated, the resolution said, "if not by direct restriction, certainly indirectly by the withdrawal from them of the rights of German citizenship and of a reasonable opportunity to train, prepare for and take part in sports competition in general and in the Olympic games in particular."

Unless this condition is changed, "in fact as well as in theory," the resolution stated, "it is impossible to permit and encourage German athletes of Jewish faith or heritage to train, prepare for and participate in the Olympic games of 1936." It continued, "neither the American Olympic Association nor the members thereof will certify any athlete of the United States of America for competition in the Olympic games of Berlin."

The resolution ended in a note of conciliation stating that it was not prepared "as one of threat or bitterness," but there was little mistaking the temper of the delegates as they gave a ringing chorus of "ayes" when the question was put to a vote.

The resolution was prepared by the executive committee in a session lasting well into the morning hours and was presented by Gustavus Town Kirby, "elder statesman" of the union and a former president.

Only one voice was raised in dissent, that of Dietrich Workmann, of the German-American Athletic Club, of New York. Workmann denied that Jews were being excluded from athletic activity in Berlin or elsewhere in Germany but said he would favor the resolution if the threat of withdrawal from the games be deleted. He made no motion to that effect, however, and the resolution was passed as presented.

Brundage Heads A. A. U. Again.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Avery Brundage, of Chicago, tonight was unanimously re-nominated for his sixth term as president of the Amateur Athletic Union. The action was taken at a conference of delegates after the annual dinner.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES

By ALEX. J. MORRISON

Central Press Association

Alex Morrison says:

Perhaps the most unprofitable thing a player can do is to practice bad shots.

This is exactly what a player does when he insists on hitting another ball right after he has topped, hooked or sliced a shot.

Invariably, he repeats his faulty swing and succeeds only in duplicating the bad shot.

The urge to try a shot over again amounts to nothing more than stubbornness.

The proper time to show that you can really make the shot is when you next come to that particular hole on which you fell down.

In the meantime do your practicing before you go out to play.

Anderson, Dugan Will Clash Tonight

Bob Anderson and Red Dugan have been re-nominated in the feature of a wrestling card at 8:15 o'clock tonight at the Avondale arena.

The program is being sponsored by the Avondale Swimming Pool Corporation.

In the semi-final, Wesley Brownlee meets the Masked Marvel and Pat Williams meets Pat O'Brien in the other of the three big events on the card.

As an added attraction, two strictly amateur matches from the Y. M. C. A. will be featured. The youngsters are champions in the respective classes, Jimmie Pantello, 170, wrestles Walter Leonard, 165, and Roy Stanford, 80, meets Thomas Mitchell, 80.

A special match between Bill Deany and Harold Hudgins, two Avondale boys, also has been added to the card. The youngsters asked for permission to appear on the card to settle an old issue.

Romanoff, Mauldin Meet at Howell Mill

George Romanoff and John Mauldin will resume their rivalry at 8 o'clock tonight in the feature of a wrestling card at the Howell Mill arena. They will meet in the best two-out-of-three fall match.

In the semi-final, Young Americus meets John Dameron, and White Patterson faces Pat Austin in the one-hour opener.

BRILLIANT RUNS FEATURE GAMES OVER WEEK-END

Kimbrell, Roberts, Schultz, Vaughn and Feathers 'Shine.'

By Dillon Graham, Associated Press Sports Writer.

Gridiron gossip among the second-graders.

Those who like their football games spiced with long runs obtained full satisfaction Saturday in many battles that saw Casey Kimbrell, of Auburn, break loose on several long trots against Georgia; Prescher Roberts, of Tulane, score on an 80-yard run against Kentucky; Perry Schultz ran 68 yards against the Cadets in the Richmond; M. L. go; Al Minor, of Georgia, dash 52 yards for a touchdown against Auburn; Pug Vaughn, of Tennessee, slip 79 yards against Vanderbilt; and Fippo Phipps, of Auburn, slither 62 yards against Georgia.

HARD LUCK.

This Georgia Tech club, called the "hard luck" outfit of Dixie, ran true to form. Spotting Alabama a touchdown in the first minute of play, the Engineers drove into the fourth quarter with a 9-0-6 lead. Then, with victory on its grasp and the books calling for tight defensive play, the Georgia Tech fullback attempted to further stretch his margin with a daring pass which Howell, of Alabama, intercepted and started a Crimson advance that netted the winning touchdown, 12 to 6.

In September this correspondent wrote that no Southern team would finish the season unbeaten or untied—Auburn brought this prophecy to fulfillment with its startling 14-6 win over Georgia—and all the critics at that game are certain Ripper Williams of Auburn, in the southeast's best quarterback. He called a near perfect game. Auburn turned Georgia's own chief weapon, a fast cut-back off tackle, against the Bulldogs and beat them at their own game.

Tulane offered the quickest scoring offensive of the year by counting two touchdowns in three minutes against Kentucky and adding another pair before the period ended. The Greenies are going strong and may ruin Louisiana's title hopes later on.

BEATIE FEATHERS.

Beatie Feathers further increased his bid for an all-star team, both with a fine performance against Vanderbilt, personally scoring three touchdowns—Tennessee intercepted five Vanderbilt passes—Brewer Wynne, the great fullback who threw out this season with a first-game injury, hobbled in to kick one of the extra points. He made it good and drew a groan from the crowd as he retired to the sidelines.

For the first time in their 42 years of play, Furman and South Carolina ended their battle in a scoreless tie. Mackorell Davidson, a kind back 70 yards against William and Mary. Thirty-two thousand persons saw Duke and North Carolina play—and left the field worried, not about the great fullback who threw out this season with a first-game injury, hobbled in to kick one of the extra points. He made it good and drew a groan from the crowd as he retired to the sidelines.

Virginia scored on Virginia Tech with a 50-yard pass. Al Casey, V. P. I. halfback, fumbled six times. Centenary rang up another victory and, more important, perhaps, kept its goal line inviolated.

Morris Brown Plays Florida Saturday

Morris Brown, leading football team among colored schools here, will meet the Florida A. & M. College Saturday afternoon at Ponce de Leon park.

With only Florida and Clark University standing in their path to a history-making record, the Wolverines is given more than an even chance to come through undefeated, which will win for the school national recognition.

Coach Nicks commented on the Florida victory over Benedict by a one-sided score of 26 to 0, and told his squad that Florida had improved 100 per cent since the previous game, whom they defeated 13 to 7. Reports from Florida have it that Coach Ted Wright has been pointing for this game from the beginning of the season, as there is a bitter rivalry between the two schools.

Tickets for the game will be on sale at the business office of Morris Brown College on the campus.

Mid-Georgia Beats Bowdoin College, 25-2

COCHRAN, Ga., Nov. 20.—The Middle Georgia Wolverines trounced the Bowdoin football team by a score of 25 to 2. Linder, Boney and Watson made touchdowns during the game.

Linder ran 72 yards in making his second and Watson ran 70 yards.

'Doc' Carter Boosts Pin Average

Dr. Benjamin T. Carter, president of the Dental Duckpin League, is out to win the high individual average and has but one bowler higher than him in average and that worthy opponent is Dr. Thad Morrison. Last night Dr. Carter picked up his average a point or two and gained considerable percentage on Dr. Morrison as Dr. Carter bowled games of 120-100-100 for a 338 set, to top the individual bowling in this league for the evening.

Dr. Morrison had a set of 322, however, and is putting up a great fight to retain the lead. It so happened that Dr. Carter's team, the Petrels, and Dr. Morrison's team, the Commodores, were opponents last night and despite Dr. Carter's brilliant exhibition his team lost two of the three games.

Dr. Talley had a set of 324, Foster 308, Garrett 311, M. D. Huff 310, Wallace 307, Scott 311, Murphy 302, Falls 315, all topping the 300 mark.

The feature match of the evening that had the Ansley Hotel and Friendly & Powers Shoes teams matched in scheduled play in the City Duckpin League attracted many spectators and they witnessed a match that was packed with thrills throughout the entire game. Ansley Hotel team winning two games.

John Blick topped the individual scoring in the City Duckpin loop for the evening with a 383 set with consistent high games of 104-124-135 and was instrumental in his team winning two games from the Original Waffle Shop. Tasty Toasty won two games from the Babby Bakers in the remaining games of the city league.

Vandy Regulars Are Given Rest

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 20.—(AP)—With no injuries, but smarting at the sore end of the 33-0 score in the 33-0 victory over Tennessee, Vanderbilt regulars rested today while the reserves went through a hard drill for the Turkey Day battle here with Alabama.

Unusual prep marked the practice which was completed in slightly less than one hour.

Jack Henderson, ace halfback who has been out since October 21, was running apparently with his old-time form. Billy Chase, who was hurt in the Georgia tilt, also was back in shape. Bill Ferrazzi, center, is ready to go Saturday, but Line Coach Ben Clements said he also would retain Welcome Shearer in that position, probably alternating the two.

Auburn Observes Dummy Scrimmage

AUBURN, Ala., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Jubilant over their upset victory over Georgia, Auburn's Plainsmen went through a dummy scrimmage here this afternoon with most of the regulars in good condition. Only minor injuries were suffered in the Georgia game but Coach Chet Wynne is taking no chances of losing members of his slender varsity outfit before the game Saturday with Florida at Gainesville.

Jordan and George Meet at Bellwood

Tarzan Jordan and Don George will feature the regular weekly wrestling card at 8:15 o'clock tonight at the Bellwood Athletic Club arena, 758 Bankhead avenue.

In another of the feature matches on the card, Sully Harbin meets Sam Adams. Both main attractions will be best two out of three falls.

Ambrose Cole meets Kid Brown in the opener.

Al Vini, the Spanish strong man, will appear as an added attraction and will present a series of stunts which he did while a member of the Ringling Brothers circus.

Ladies will be admitted free.

Cortazzo was borrowed from the Barons and Memphis had the privilege of buying him.

ROCHERICHARD TRIES NEWCOMER ON WEDNESDAY

Ostapavitch Proves Favorite With Mat Fans of Atlanta.

Sarna Ostapavitch, the young wrestling sensation here, will have his hands full Wednesday night when he tackles Roughhouse Richard Davis, the California bad man, in the feature two-hour match at the auditorium.

Ostapavitch, the Lithuanian champion, has created quite a sensation in his recent matches and will be the favorite Wednesday night. His victory last week over Big Chick Chewchik, the wild Indian wrestler, put him in good with the mat patrons here and they will be pulling for him to beat Davis, the original villain of the mat.

Davis, one of the most colorful wrestlers in the game, is a veteran while Ostapavitch is a comparative youngster, and Davis will have the edge on his foe in his long experience in the ring. He has had a rough and tumble career and is one of the toughest in the business. It should be a great match.

Jack Zarnos, the former Ohio State football player and a much liked character, will return to the gymnasium, French-Canadian, in the one-hour match. Fans will welcome the return of Zarnos.

Checkers for the matches are on sale at the Piedmont Hatters.

Florida 'Gators Go Back To Work

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Their football holiday over, the Florida 'Gators' went to work today to prepare for Saturday's homecoming game against Tennessee.

Unusual prep marked the practice which was completed in slightly less than one hour.

Jack Henderson, ace halfback who has been out since October 21, was running apparently with his old-time form. Billy Chase, who was hurt in the Georgia tilt, also was back in shape. Bill Ferrazzi, center, is ready to go Saturday, but Line Coach Ben Clements said he also would retain Welcome Shearer in that position, probably alternating the two.

Tulane Enjoys A 'Victory' Rest

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20.—(AP)—The Tulane Green Wave enjoyed a rest day today after their victory over the Kentucky last Saturday. The only activity required of the squad was attendance at the lecture by Coaches Ted Cox and Lester Lanten.

Tomorrow the Wave is expected to start preparations for next Saturday's game with Sewanee which is to be played in the Tulane stadium.

Broxton, Pearson Divide Cage Bill

BROXTON, Ga., Nov. 16.—The Broxton and Pearson High schools split a double-header in basketball here today.

The Pearson girls showed excellent passing and won by a score of 20-to-4. The Broxton boys played hard and somewhat ragged at times but won the game by a score of 26-to-10.

THE PORTLIGHT

Unraveling the Mystery.

It might be interesting to unravel some of the mysteries of 1933 football. It's all simple enough. For example—Georgia Tech, Georgia Washington and Duke all trim Auburn. Then Auburn turns and beats an unbeaten, untied Georgia team.

Washington runs up six first downs to California's five. Washington rushes and passes the ball for 126 yards to California's 125. California beats Washington 33-0.

Minnesota and Stanford can't score on Northwestern. Notre Dame doesn't score against Kansas, Pittsburgh, Carnegie Tech, Navy and Purdue. Then Notre Dame scores on Northwestern.

Stanford scores a total of only 31 points against U. C. L. A., Northwestern and Washington, and then runs up 13 points against Southern California.

The Washington team that beat Stanford 6-0 lost to California by 38-0, and yet Stanford is an even bet against California this week.

Stanford scores a total of only 31 points against U. C. L. A., Northwestern and Washington, and then runs up 13 points against Southern California.

October, November Strength

In working out your hunches and your prophecies, it is just as well to remember there is often a wide gap between what you think and what actually happens along the football front.

For example, Columbia, Tennessee, Stanford, Pittsburgh and Tulane have been far more powerful in November than they were in October.

Against this, Michigan and Minnesota have begun to show the effects of battering schedules and have lost some of their earlier steam.

In this matter of national ranking not nearly enough attention is paid to the types of schedules played.

Taking no credit from the fine teams of Army, Princeton and Duke, suppose any one of these teams had to Dartmouth. All the others have been tough riding. The same is true of Minnesota that had to face Indiana, Purdue, Pittsburgh, Iowa, Northwestern and Michigan on successive Saturdays with Wisconsin still ahead.

Customary Drill Is Given L. S. U.

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 20.—(AP)—Louisiana State University's varsity footballers had the customary light Monday workout today as they started training for this Saturday's tilt with Mississippi State in Monroe.

deformed limbs to normalcy and eventually enable them to run and play like the other kids.

The hospital, since its creation, has benefited something like 5,000 children from every county in the state. The work has not been restricted to children of Massons, but has been given to all. Some miraculous feats of surgery have been performed there.

There are now 50 children in the clinic and 30 in bed. But the hospital is running only at half capacity, since the expense is enormous.

GOAL IS $12,000.

If $12,000 is realized from the Georgia-Tech freshman game, it can be opened to capacity. This is the goal of Yaarab Temple, which is sponsoring the game.

The drive has been opened with influential and worth-while men behind it. All proceeds will go to the hospital. Admission prices have been announced at $1 east and west stands, 50 cents for the south stands, 50 cents in the north stands, with children going for 25 cents. The prices are reasonable and all seats are reserved.

The advance sale will open with tickets placed at Muse's Tech Athletic Association, the Shrine temple in Atlanta and Costa's at Athens.

The game starts at 2:30 p. m. Thanksgiving day (central time) and is the outstanding game in Atlanta. There will be extra entertainment before the game.

The executive committee of the Shrine consists of W. C. Wardlaw, Marion Smith, Frank Sprattling, Robert H. Martin, Thomas C. Law, J. W. Setze Jr.

Wiley West, the new postmaster at Deatur, is in charge of stunts for the game. All indications point to a wonderful crowd.

Secret practice at Ponce de Leon park was inaugurated Monday afternoon by the Boys' High eleven as it began preparations to meet Tech High Friday afternoon at Ponce de Leon park for the city championship and the right to play for the state crown later in the season.

Meanwhile, Tech High continued its work at the Henry Grady field in a more determination than ever to imparts in the offensive as well.

Boys' High coaches have not been entirely satisfied with their offense all season. It has been forward passes that have played an important part in the victories, and Coaches Doyal and Mizell are determined to present a more varied attack against Tech High.

NEW PLAYS.

Officials at Tech High had planned to hold secret practices this week, but were unable to find a suitable field, free from the many spectators and supporters that watch each workout.

Coach Claude Tolbert, of Tech High, and his aids have developed some new plays that will be used in the city championship game and it is likely that some new ball carrier will be depended upon Friday afternoon.

Norman Perry, Bill Ellis and Heywood Dowling have done well in certain games, while in others, it was Jack Newlands, Barnes and Schutte who carried the burden.

Special attention has been given to Newlands and Barnes in recent practices in the hopes of improving their ability. Both have blocked well but have not been outstanding as ball carriers. Perry, Dowling and Ellis have been given some attention at blocking and running interference, for that has been their weakness in recent games.

Depending entirely on the forward pass combination of Carlisle Smith to Captain Otis Martin, Boys' High is seeking a substitute for the pass in Friday's game with Tech High. The Purples' passes have been well-performed but their running attack has been somewhat limited.

FINE DEFENSE.

Boys' High defense has been outstanding. In the first six games the Purples have kept their opponents from advancing the ball no nearer than the 19-yard line. And that is some sort of record within itself.

Particular attention will be given to Rudy Atkinson, Carey McQueen and Geraldine in the remaining scrimmages of the week. They run on Contract

A Discouraging Discard

BY ELY CULBERTSON
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

It is very seldom that a player on defense must discourage his partner's opening lead when it seems ideal from his hand. Yet this is the situation which confronted Mr. Samuel Fry Jr., in a tournament in which his partner was Mr. Edward Hynes Jr., of New York city.

Against a three-notrump contract,

Mr. Hymes made a somewhat

tion and most effective opening read, and it was evident to Mr. Fry that this lead insured immediate establishment of a long suit. Mr. Fry's reason for discouraging the establishment of the suit, and the inferences that he was able to convey through his discarding and his play make the following hand of especial interest to those who are seeking to improve their defensive game.
 South, dealer.
 Both sides vulnerable.

—An inferential force. With a weak hand, North could have passed three diamonds. This shows a willingness to play at four diamonds in any case, at spades if South can support them, or at three no-trump if South's hand is equal to the bid. South must make some response, the weakest of which would be four diamonds.

Mr. Hymes opened the king of clubs. He knew that any club honor in his partner's hand should make it possible to establish the suit, so that the lead was unlikely to lose a trick.

held four clubs or the ace, Mr. H.

new he could never regain the lead even though he were successful in establishing the clubs, and he wanted to be on lead still at the second trick. The case a shiff proved to be desirable.

Mr. Fry also knew that the club suit could be established by straight rads, but that Mr. Hymes would be unable to run the suit afterwards because he lacked a re-entry. He therefore played the three of clubs, a stop signal. Mr. Hymes correctly read this as a command to shiff, and he indicated lead was through Dummy's spade suit, which had not been assisted. Dummy played the knave,

Mr. Fry won with the queen's pades. He now led the knave.

ubs, and declarer could not make is contract. If he took the ace, the sub suit would be established, and Mr. Fry would be able to lead a third round after winning with the king of spades. As the play actually went, declarer ducked, so Mr. Hymes promptly overtook with the queen of clubs and led another spade, giving Mr. Fry two more spade tricks for the total of five necessary to defeat the contract.

The advantage of the discouraging discard is shown in this hand, and the inference of the desired spade cards, which Mr. Hymes correctly and, represents a beautiful part of
